Dear Joseph:

Congratulations! It is our great pleasure to offer you admission to UCLA for the Fall Quarter 2021. You have been admitted to the Henry Samueli School of Engineering and Applied Science with Computer Science as your academic major.

You were selected from the largest college applicant pool in the nation—over 139,000 students applied to UCLA. Your talents and academic accomplishments are exceptional, and we know that you will thrive here. With over 125 majors and 80+ minors, the academic breadth available to you as a student is second to none. You will also receive personal attention from instructors: two out of three undergraduate classes have fewer than 30 students. Our campus community of over 1,000 clubs and organizations will give you opportunities to engage and explore with your fellow Bruins.

UCLA prepares you to step into your future through our unique combination of cutting-edge academic programs, a diverse and enriching student life, support for career exploration, and a college town located in Los Angeles, one of the most innovative and diverse cities in the world. You will have every opportunity imaginable to develop the talents and interests that will lead you to success.

Your next step is the formal acceptance of our admission offer, which you can complete at the New Bruins website. The site also includes information about important deadlines and your housing application. Please review your Admission Contract to ensure that you will continue to meet the conditions of our offer. For your reference, your UCLA Student ID is shown above.

For now, enjoy this moment and what it signifies—that you are about to begin one of the most exciting chapters in your life. I hope you are excited about the journey ahead! Los Angeles is about dreaming big, so I encourage you to realize your dreams here at UCLA. We proudly invite you to join our class of 2025.

Go Bruins!

Sincerely,

Gary A. Clark, Jr.
